In this best practice example we play the virtual Escape Room for intercultural learning "A-ney". You will interact with other participants and solve tasks together as a team to "escape" from the (virtual) room. Besides having fun together, you will take first steps in intercultural collaboration, which we will reflect on in the debriefing. Furthermore, we will discuss the possibilities and limitations of the escape room method for intercultural learning and report on previous experiences with heterogeneous target groups.

Game language is English (min. B2). You will need a good internet connection and a workstation with a computer, camera, microphone and speakers (or headset).

The number of participants is limited. You can register here: barbara.nietzel@uni-jena.de
As long as there are still places available, your participation will be confirmed.

The Escape Room implementation is part of the project MIL - Multilingual Intercultural Learning.

Facilitators:

Philipp Förster, Zichun Huang, Sina M. Paske and Barbara Nietzel are collaborators in the project MIL and develop here, among other things, interactive scenarios for intercultural and multilingual learning. They have already tested the Escape Room A-ney with numerous participants and also accompany the Escape Room implementations scientifically.

*Note: For research purposes, the Escape Room implementation is recorded.
The debriefing as well as the following discussion will not be recorded.*
